Welcome

Hello and welcome to Archimedes!

Archimedes (c.287 BC – c.212 BC) was a Greek mathematician, physicist, engineer, inventor and astronomer. He is credited with designing innovative machines, including the screw pump that bears his name (and is our subcamp logo!).

Check back soon for updates on the Archimedes subcamp!

The Archimedes Subcamp Team

Archimedes Life

We will offer a staggering evening experience and a relaxed daytime environment.

When you have some spare time during the day, we have a coffee shop with mellow music, comfortable chairs, some games and a relaxed atmosphere for you to recharge your batteries.

For Guides and Scouts under the age of 18, evening entertainment will be held at The Acropolis. Activities include a games night, a disco, a Talent Night (with the top two acts moving to the finals of The WINGS Factor on the main camp stage) and a Toga party in honour of Archimedes. So start practicing your talent and don't forget to pack your toga and we'll see you in The Acropolis!

Subject to change by the WINGS Management.

Why Archimedes?

He saw the potential to change the living conditions of his fellow man by allowing easy access to water via a simple contraption. This invention has gone on to give millions of people throughout the world the gift of life through water.

How do you think the water in a log flume gets to the top of the drop? Most use the Archimedes screw, the provider of hours of wet fun.
